We’re pleased to share this Biennial Report covering our grants from 2021 and 2022.

Partnerships with the community and our responsibility as a grant maker allow us to play a helpful role in good times and in tragedy. In fact, the highest compliment we can receive from a grantee or a community is that we were a great partner when they needed it most.

Throughout this report, you’ll see collaborations that nurture quality of life in our two communities. As we have worked to build trust and shared opportunities with our grantee partners, we have seen new ideas emerge and take flight; ideas like the Regional Revitalization Partnership, a $300 million public and private regional co-investment to support opportunities that build inclusive economic growth and prosperity throughout Buffalo, Niagara Falls, and Rochester, New York. In Southeast Michigan, a first-time collaboration among community colleges and several stakeholders is transforming the regional talent pipeline to increase economic equity and prosperity for all residents.

Over these last few years, we continue to witness the sheer resilience and persistence of communities in Western New York and Southeast Michigan. On May 14, 2022, our beloved Buffalo faced the unthinkable, when a racially motivated mass shooting stole the lives of 10 community members. This tragic loss only amplified the disparities within this historically Black neighborhood in East Buffalo. Strategic work and investment in this community was already underway and has seen acceleration through the Regional Revitalization Partnership. In addition, we joined with a committed group of funders through the Buffalo Together Community Response Fund to mobilize immediate support and develop a broader community investment strategy. Much work remains and progress will only take place through neighborhood and community voice.
Last year, we also experienced the loss of the Foundation’s life trustee Eugene Driker, after his battle with cancer. As one of four life trustees appointed by our founder Ralph Wilson, Eugene’s compassion and wisdom is imprinted on every team member and partner that had the honor of knowing him. Eugene’s memory is a blessing to us, and his legacy will endure in our work and far beyond.

As we close out our reporting for 2021 and 2022, we also open a new leadership chapter for our Foundation, with life trustee Mary Owen taking on the board chair role in 2023. She succeeds Mary Wilson, whose service and heartfelt leadership have buoyed us and encouraged us to work harder and feel more hopeful during our most challenging times. The Foundation also recently welcomed the addition of Elizabeth Woike-Ganga as an at-large trustee and new program committee members: Monique Wells and Dr. Thomasina “Tina” Stenhouse. The Foundation will benefit greatly from their depth of knowledge and experience across our two regions as we work in partnership to advance the Foundation’s grantmaking and program strategies.

Yours in partnership,

MARY WILSON

People of all ages need access to public spaces in their community that encourage and welcome active lifestyles. We work in partnership across our two regions to connect people and communities to each other through trail systems and world-class parks. We also consider the way that infrastructure is supporting sustainability so that communities can thrive amidst growth and climate change.

Our perspective is expansive, so we look at how we might fill gaps—literally—in the regional trail systems that connect communities to each other. Our youth sports and recreation work focuses on making safe spaces and programs available so all kids can be active. In 2021 and 2022, our Active Lifestyles investments broke new ground—as you’ll see when you read about our legacy parks, made history as with the first-ever municipal Environmental Impact Bond in Buffalo, and continued to make play and sports a priority for youth and people of all ages.
CLICK HERE to learn more about the community engagement behind the Ralph Wilson Park in Buffalo, NY
WHAT HAPPENED:
In the spring and summer of 2022, the future Ralph C. Wilson, Jr. Centennial Parks in Detroit and Buffalo marked major milestones with ceremonial groundbreaking events.

WHY IT MATTERS:
While each waterfront park is connected through the legacy of our founder Mr. Wilson and the Foundation’s support, they are unique to each city, having been designed by and for the communities they will serve. The groundbreaking ceremonies were the culmination of several years of inclusive and transparent community engagement and planning with stakeholders.

OUR ROLE:
On October 17, 2018, the 100th anniversary of Ralph Wilson’s birth, we made two $100 million commitments to support parks and trails in each of our regions. The $50 million lead gifts allocated to each park – then West Riverfront Park in Detroit and LaSalle Park in Buffalo – was an opportunity for each community to dream big and create one-of-a-kind, world class parks serving all residents and visitors.

WHO’S INVOLVED:
The communities’ visions in each park offered the opportunity and pathway for numerous public and private partners to engage in the development. In each region, a diverse coalition of funding partners have come together to help make these parks of a reality – from federal partners like the Great Lakes Commission to local corporate and private funders.

DETROIT HIGHLIGHTS:
The Detroit Riverfront Conservancy is spearheading the construction of the 22-acre Ralph Wilson Park along the Detroit River, which will feature a water garden, the William Davidson Sport House, the Delta Dental Play Garden with an array of animal structures and the DTE Foundation Hill, an expansive lawn for special events. The William Davidson Sport House will add to the public offerings on the Detroit Riverfront and features a raised canopy and skylight in a multi-use flexible space for a range of programs and events.

BUFFALO HIGHLIGHTS:
On behalf of the City of Buffalo, the Buffalo Urban Development Corporation is managing the construction of the more than 100-acre Ralph Wilson Park on Lake Erie. The park will undergo a dramatic transformation. The topography will change with sweeping hills and valleys, active and diverse recreation activities, and a destination play space for children of all ages. The new design will increase neighborhood connectivity through a new pedestrian bridge, maximize safe water access, and establish a resilient shoreline to mitigate the effects of climate change and rising lake levels.

“Generations of Buffalo Bills fans knew of founder Ralph Wilson’s commitment to Buffalo and generosity during his life. The groundbreaking of Ralph Wilson Park will bring a collaborative transformation of this waterfront park into a vibrant community space where future generations will enjoy gathering for many years to come, and that will ensure Ralph Wilson’s love for our community continues to make an impact.”

KATHY HOCHUL, NEW YORK GOVERNOR
“Twenty years ago, nobody would have believed that Detroit’s riverfront – with its cement silos and parking lots – would become one of the most beautiful and accessible waterfronts in the country, but through the work of the Detroit Riverfront Conservancy, city government and countless partners, that’s exactly what we have. In just a couple of years, our riverfront will achieve true world-class status when the new Ralph C. Wilson, Jr. Centennial Park opens with its incredible amenities and physical features. Even better is the fact that it will connect to the Joe Louis Greenway, giving residents in neighborhoods across the city direct access to this extraordinary new park. Detroit is so fortunate to have been the beneficiary of this incredible gift from the Ralph C. Wilson, Jr. Foundation.”

WHAT HAPPENED:
In 2021, the Buffalo Sewer Authority closed on a $54 million bond, the country’s largest to date. The bond will finance green infrastructure and stormwater management as part of the authority’s Rain Check 2.0 initiative; we funded some of that initiative’s research.

OUR ROLE:
In partnership with the Community Foundation for Greater Buffalo, we provided a $175,000 grant to support Ann Arbor-based Environmental Consulting & Technology, Inc. to provide the technical expertise needed to secure the bonds for the Buffalo Sewer Authority.

WHY IT MATTERS:
The bond brings together city government and commercial property owners to implement proven green infrastructure projects throughout the city that will have a wide range of economic, environmental, and public health benefits. Environmental impact bonds finance green infrastructure, reduce sewer overflows, and create and retain good-paying jobs – all while making Buffalo a greener, healthier, and more equitable city.

YOUTH SPORTS & RECREATION SPOTLIGHT

BUFFALO’S ENVIRONMENTAL IMPACT BOND
WHAT IS IT:
Detroit Parks Coalition (DPC) is an alliance of organizations that supports healthy, equitable, and vibrant parks through fundraising, collaboration, and advocacy. DPC includes representatives from 10 park stewardship organizations, covering more than 20 parks across the City of Detroit.

WHY IT MATTERS:
DPC was formed in 2018 in response to various local parks organizations wanting to increase efficiencies by sharing learning and limited resources and taking a collective approach to parks stewardship. This collaboration will lead to improved park experiences for residents through capital improvements and increased quality, recreational and cultural programming for youth and families.

OUR ROLE:
As we look to find opportunities to give more children across the City of Detroit the ability to be active in sports and recreation, we joined other local funders to make a grant of more than $2.6 million to support DPC’s efforts across three areas of its work. The grant will provide three years of funding to support and operate the Pistons Neighbors Program in partnership with the Detroit Pistons and William Davidson Foundation providing free and healthy activities across Detroit; match funding for both capital improvements in member parks, and for project, programs, or capacity-building in those same parks; and support a fellowship at the City of Detroit to bridge planning between the Parks & Recreation Division and DPC member parks.

WHAT’S NEXT:
In 2023, DPC will distribute the first round of grants from our funding to support a cross-section of programming, park improvements, and capacity supports that will immediately and tangibly improve park experiences, while strengthening the stewardship of the organizations leading these efforts.

LIFE TRUSTEE MARY WILSON AND BUFFALO YOUTH CELEBRATING THE GROUNDBREAKING OF RALPH WILSON PARK
We often think of entrepreneurship and economic development as key elements in making a place a community, one in which people want to live, work, and play—and one where everyone has the opportunity to build wealth. In our work, we look to partner with public and private groups that are building strong networks of support for entrepreneurs and small businesses at all stages of growth. And it’s why we support place-based economic development strategies, including finding opportunities to invest in commercial corridors in the rural, suburban, and urban geographies we invest in. In addition, we know that access to skilled talent also drives economic growth—whether it’s keeping our own or attracting it from the outside—and that talent we need is attracted to amenities like the great parks and trails, and arts and culture that are essential for vibrant places where people want to live. When you add it all together, we are investing in great people, places, and ideas. Read on to learn more.
WHAT HAPPENED:
In December 2021, we announced a $200 million commitment to help transform the financial strength and long-term viability of Southeast Michigan and Western New York's arts and culture communities through the creation of two endowments that will support the sector – as a key regional economic driver – now and in perpetuity.

HOW DOES IT WORK:
We will pay out a total of $117.5 million between 2021-2031 to establish two Arts & Culture Endowments at the Community Foundation for Southeast Michigan and Community Foundation for Greater Buffalo. Once fully funded, each endowment will generate approximately $3.75 million in annual payout to permanently support funding streams, including operational support for key regional anchor institutions, permanent support for small to mid-size organizations through a competitive grant program, and support for implementation capacity at both community foundations.

HOW IS THE IMPACT IMMEDIATE:
While the endowment is being built over a decade, we are simultaneously providing an additional $3.75 million annually to each community foundation over nine years in each region (for a total of $67.5 million), allowing grantmaking to begin in 2022. Additionally, three $5 million capital grants were provided to the Buffalo AKG Art Museum, Motown Museum, and Strong National Museum of Play in 2021 to complete major expansion projects already in development.

WHO RECEIVES SUPPORT:
$6 million annually will be granted for general operating support for 24 of the regions’ largest arts and culture institutions that play a critical role as economic drivers. Each organization is co-designing, in partnership with each community foundation and national consultants, metrics and benchmarks that support their goals and strategic plans.

HOW ARE MORE INSTITUTIONS INCLUDED:
An additional $1 million will be granted annually to small to mid-size arts and culture organizations through the community foundations. In 2022, more than 100 nonprofit arts and culture organizations in Western New York and Southeast Michigan received this funding, with $500,000 disbursed to each region. Throughout 2021, community conversations led by each community foundation informed the grantmaking guidelines and process. These conversations will continue to gather input from leaders in the sector about expanding access for audiences and artists of all disciplines and the importance of inclusion and equity.

WHY IT MATTERS:
Arts and culture institutions of all sizes play a tremendous role in shaping the unique identity and fabric of our communities. Their contributions to our regions’ quality of life and economies through job creation, local spend, consumer purchases, tax revenue, and tourism are significant, in addition to talent attraction and retention.

“While arts and culture are not specific funding priorities for the Wilson Foundation, the pandemic laid bare the fragile operational health of this critical sector of our economy. Witnessing the subsequent struggles within this sector, the Foundation trustees made the decision to address this broadly with a one-time strategic approach through the lens of our economic development focus area. Consistent with Ralph Wilson’s philosophy of giving, reflected in how he structured his foundation, our aim with this historic gift is to make an immediate and significant impact. We know there is more to be done and hope it will inspire many others to fund operations of cultural organizations across the sector and help further build their endowments.”

WHAT IS IT:
The Chautauqua County Partnership for Economic Growth (CCPEG) was formally established in 2019 as an initiative within the Chautauqua Region Economic Development Corporation with a mission to serve "as the catalyst and broker of resources for advancing economic prosperity efforts and to be the central coordinating entity for the formation, retention, development, and attraction of sustainable jobs and advancements to quality of life in Chautauqua County."

WHY IT MATTERS:
Chautauqua County is a beautiful rural community with many assets including a high quality of life, good infrastructure, natural resources, a strong tourism industry, and opportunities for skilled workers that provide the necessary foundation for growth in coming years. However, the county has not yet experienced the resurgence of economic activity and revitalization initiatives that other parts of Western New York have in recent years, and with continued job and population losses, still lags behind in leading economic indicators.

WHAT HAPPENED:
With active participation from more than 100 economic development partners from throughout the county, CCPEG led the development of a five-year Economic Development Strategic Plan in 2020 to outline a county-wide approach across five strategic pillars: Business Development; Community Development; Housing; Tourism/Destination Development; and Workforce Readiness and Development. Dedicated working groups for each pillar were established and six priority projects were identified with detailed implementation, cost estimates, and timelines.

OUR ROLE:
After providing an initial grant of $75,000 in 2019 for planning support, we followed up with a three-year, $1.05 million grant in 2021 to extend and enhance CCPEG’s administrative and project development capacity, while dedicating a majority of the funding to a project leveraging fund that supports the implementation of priority projects outlined in the strategic plan.

This flexible funding pool is designed to provide critical local-matching dollars for catalytic economic and community development projects seeking funding from a multitude of local, state, federal, and other philanthropic sources. These matching funds will allow CCPEG to leverage up to five additional dollars for every dollar we invest.

WHAT’S NEXT:
CCPEG has since been awarded $390,000 in local funding in 2022 from a range of sources, including the American Rescue Plan Act and several other local foundations. Its strategic plan serves as a "call to action" and offers a clear vision for achieving economic prosperity in Chautauqua County. Most importantly, it promotes a collaborative and countywide outlook that supports substantial initiatives and strategic investment, to incrementally transform Chautauqua County’s economic standing in Western New York and across the state.
WHAT IS IT:
The WNY Regional Revitalization Partnership (RRP) is a $300 million private and public regional co-investment in three interconnected geographic areas: Buffalo; Niagara Falls; and Rochester, NY. This community-driven strategy seeks to build local wealth and empower residents using a model that drives economic development through government and philanthropic partnership.

HOW IT WAS DEVELOPED:
The RRP strategy was developed in 2021 by a team led by the University at Buffalo Regional Institute and was born from the successful experience from the East Side Avenues initiative in Buffalo. RRP has a clear objective of revitalizing economically distressed neighborhoods by fostering small businesses, investing in placemaking, and preparing the workforce.

OUR ROLE:
As one of the lead funders in the East Side Avenues initiative, we saw firsthand the impact of pooling and leveraging our investments around a comprehensive economic development strategy. Seeing alignment of the developing RRP strategy across several of our priority areas, including place-based economic development, entrepreneurship, workforce, and parks & trails, our trustees committed $67 million in late 2021 to jump-start match funding required for the public-private partnership to be realized.

HOW IT’S FUNDED:
In 2022, Governor Hochul announced a $200 million commitment from the Fiscal Year 2023 New York State budget for RRP (disbursed through Empire State Development) in response to the match commitment of $100 million: $81 million from corporate and philanthropic partners (including ESL, KeyBank/First Niagara Foundation, M&T Bank, the Max and Marian Farash Charitable Foundation and Ralph C. Wilson, Jr. Foundation) and $19 million from local governments. Over the next five years, RRP will make $180 million in investments for community wealth-building and placemaking efforts in Buffalo’s East Side, $40 million in Niagara Falls, and $80 million in Rochester.

HOW DOES IT WORK:
RRP uses economic development strategies that address community priorities and needs in three core areas: fostering inclusive entrepreneurship and small business growth; improving local business districts, rebuilding community anchors, and revitalizing neighborhoods; and preparing the workforce for high-quality jobs. Programs and projects involved must engage with community members, and local intermediary organizations will help to keep folks connected and accountable.

WHY IT MATTERS:
This economic development strategy can demonstrate how New York State’s partnership with cities as well as public-private sectors can drive catalytic initiatives and lay the foundation for inclusive and equitable growth for the long-term. RRP can also serve as a pilot program that could be rolled out to the rest of New York State and has the potential to become an innovative national model for community-based economic revitalization.
This effort not only builds on the existing work of dozens of partners and funders that has already been underway in each individual community but multiplies those efforts through strategic public and private investments that have great potential to reduce economic disparities and achieve transformational impact across the region. Western New York’s strategic packaging and prioritization of projects is gaining recognition as a national model to leverage additional funding streams. As a spend down foundation with just over 12 years remaining, this strong and strategic collaboration paved the way for us to make this substantial commitment at this moment in time benefiting three communities we care deeply about.

We are always thinking about the long game – in particular, what happens when we close our doors in January 2035. It’s our hope and intent that what we’re helping to support and build now can stand the test of time and thrive. The same goes when we think about what it takes to succeed at life. Throughout our lifespan, we need support at every stage of life. From early childhood, when learning crucial social skills that prepare us for education, to out-of-school time as children and teens, when we develop our lifelong interests and passions, to post-secondary learning and occupational discovery, when we make our way as young adults into the world. At every stage, the Ralph C. Wilson, Jr. Foundation partners with innovative grantees to advance ideas, based on what we hear from the people we serve is important to them. We continually learn along the way and are proud to share some of the fun and meaningful things we’ve been a part of in 2021 and 2022.
EARLY CHILDHOOD SPOTLIGHT

PEDALS HELPS GROW A BRIGHTER FUTURE

WHAT IT IS:
PEDALS (Positive Emotional Development and Learning Skills) supports teachers in early childhood classrooms to integrate activities and stories in short daily lessons to help young children learn compassionate methods for managing their emotions and communicating their needs.

WHY IT MATTERS:
Teachers, students, and even adjacent classrooms see a positive impact when PEDALS is used in a classroom. Positive Emotional Development and Learning Skills (PEDALS) are essential because they are the building blocks for life. When children are taught self-regulation, research shows it leads to better academic performance, healthier relationships, and fewer behavioral issues.

HOW DOES IT WORK:
Through in-person coaching for early childhood teachers, the PEDALS program strives to boost children’s emotional and social well-being by implementing developmental screening, tools to support positive development, and quality improvement methods.

WHO’S INVOLVED:
PEDALS launched in 2012 in Western New York thanks to our partners at the Health Foundation for Western and Central New York (HFWCNY) and the Tower Foundation. More recently, HFWCNY has provided support for the expansion of PEDALS to the Central New York region and BlueCross BlueShield’s Blue Fund has provided expansion support in the region’s Southern Tier.

OUR ROLE:
Seeing the positive impact PEDALS is having in Western New York, we provided support in 2017 to pilot the program in Southeast Michigan. In 2021, we provided additional support to continue to expand the program to new classrooms in childcare centers and Head Start classrooms across all seven regions of Southeast Michigan and nine counties of Western New York.

WHAT’S NEXT:
Beyond program expansion, the PEDALS model is being rigorously evaluated to measure the results the program produces for children and providers. The data from this evaluation will be used to support broader systems change and sustainability.

AFTERSCHOOL SPOTLIGHT

GEN Z TURNS THE TABLES ON GRANTMAKING

WHAT IS IT:
Generator Z is a more than $5 million grantmaking initiative that brought together teens to share stories and ideas afterschool providers can use to reimagine the future of afterschool in Southeast Michigan and Western New York.

WHY IT MATTERS:
Decades of research prove that kids in afterschool attend school more often, get better grades, and are more likely to graduate. Afterschool, or out-of-school time, programs can often provide enriching activities, more time for deeper learning, creative spaces for hands-on projects, a chance to relax and unwind, and opportunities to explore careers. The inspiration behind Generator Z was to put youth in the driver’s seat and hand them the microphone to share back to afterschool providers, funders, and other community leaders about what they want from an afterschool experience. In turn, afterschool providers can then do what they do best and use that inspiration from youth to both experiment and enhance their existing programs through these grants.

WHO'S INVOLVED:
In late 2020, more than 1,000 teens representing the diversity of our two regions were selected as “Generators” and paid to share their vision for the future of afterschool. In January 2021, their stories were published on the public platform Generator-Z.org, providing these 13- to 18-year-olds with a platform during a time when their everyday lives were disrupted by a global pandemic, racial injustice, and political tension.

HOW DID IT WORK:
Once the stories were published, afterschool providers across our two regions were then invited to apply for grants responding to the Generators’ stories and afterschool ideas they shared. A committee of teens, adult allies, and near-peers served as judges to recommend and prioritize grant support that was distributed through our partner-intermediary Lakeshore Connections.

WHO RECEIVED SUPPORT:
In June 2021, 93 nonprofits were selected to receive one-year grants ranging from $10,000 to $100,000 and totaling more than $4 million. Once nonprofits received grants, the Generators then had the opportunity to provide feedback and evaluate the grants at the six-month milestone. Generator Z’s website includes teen and grantee feedback and inspiration to redefine afterschool programs for teenagers in Southeast Michigan and Western New York. Over three phases of engagement, teen “Generators” each collected up to $1,000 for their participation totaling over $1 million, valuing them as the ultimate experts of their own lives.

WHAT WE LEARNED:
The 1,000 Generators acquired storytelling skills, gained insights into philanthropy, and took charge of distributing over $4 million in grant funds. The Generator Z initiative contributed to afterschool providers offering youth-centered programming, while inspiring many to expand or develop programs to better incorporate youth voices, as informed by Generators’ stories. A complete evaluation report will be made public by the end of 2023.

WHAT'S NEXT:

“To actually have influence over afterschool opportunities was really important. A wise person once told me to never trust someone who says they work in your best interest but never invites your opinion. The participation of so many teens of so many different ages and places built trust and led to these grants. When I helped select grantees, I paid attention to language and how they spoke to me. That really helps me believe in an organization and what they have to offer.”

“Mental health is super important, especially for young teens. I think that having people in your life that you can talk to about this stuff helps.”

—Ishmail, Western New York (‘Mindful Moves’ Generator feedback)

“You always learn about jobs like doctors, lawyers, teachers, police officers, firefighters and nurses. There is nothing wrong with those jobs, but I know there are so many more jobs and careers out there that teens need to be exposed to.”

—William H. (Age 14) Generator who inspired GEN-STEM Mentoring Project
“Often teens are told that they can’t really have a voice, but Generator Z did the opposite. It got me out of my comfort zone which is good because I usually like to stay in my own bubble. I shared my own story and then saw afterschool providers do an amazing job responding to Generator insights. They developed and pitched programs that sounded fun and could help motivate more teens to join afterschool programs. I like the way that providers took specific examples from a teen’s story and then showed how it impacted or inspired their program.”

CAREERWISE GREATER BUFFALO

WHAT IT IS:
CareerWise Greater Buffalo is a modern youth apprenticeship initiative that promotes equitable career pathways for students and addresses the local need for skilled talent to fill high-quality, in-demand occupations in the Western New York region. The CareerWise youth apprenticeship model pairs real-world work experience with classroom learning and specialized instruction leading to postsecondary credentials.

WHY IT MATTERS:
Modern youth apprenticeships offer opportunities for increased economic mobility for a young adults eager to enter the workforce. To equitably extend these opportunities, it is important to build a regional system that leverages state and nationwide networks, lessons, and best practices. It is also key to closely engage with employers all along the way to ensure the skills finely match the need.

WHO’S INVOLVED:
Say Yes Buffalo is playing the coordination role for this initiative, which launched in 2022 with 25 students from Buffalo Public Schools and six inaugural employer partners: Harmac Medical Products, Moog, M&T Bank, Rich Products, Tesla, and Wegmans. Education partners include the Buffalo Public Schools, Hilbert College, and Northland Workforce Training Center. CareerWise Greater Buffalo is also one of several pillars of the Community Foundation for Greater Buffalo’s Racial Equity Roundtable and its Youth Employment Coalition (YEC).

OUR ROLE:
To set the stage for the creation of a modern apprenticeship program in Buffalo and Western New York, we provided support to Washington, DC-based New America, which founded the national Partnership to Advance Youth Apprenticeship (PAYA) network. In 2019 and 2020, New America conducted an initial readiness assessment and subsequent planning support with Say Yes and regional stakeholders to develop high-quality, high school youth apprenticeships. With a shared vision and plan embraced by stakeholders and employer partners, we provided a $2.5 million grant to Say Yes to launch the CareerWise Greater Buffalo pilot.

HOW IT WORKS:
CareerWise apprenticeships involve a three-way partnership between the apprentice, the employer, and the higher-education education and training provider. Apprenticeships provide hands-on, work-based learning experiences to youth and young adults, allowing them to develop technical skills and gain real-world work experience while earning a wage. In its pilot phase, apprenticeships are offered in three career pathways: Advanced Manufacturing, Business Operations, and Information Technology. Upon completion of the three-year youth apprenticeship, successful students will be offered the opportunity to move into full-time employment with participating employers with starting salaries averaging $45,000. This new program continues to evolve to meet the needs of the students and employers.

“CareerWise is a game-changer for Buffalo students, and soon, other students across our region. For nearly 10 years, we’ve provided college tuition assistance and supports for Buffalo students pursuing higher education. This program creates new pathways to prosperity for students who aren’t taking a traditional college path. In this first year, where we validated our proof of concept, we saw an overwhelming desire from students to compete for these positions. Students want access to high-quality careers, and our employers have vast workforce needs. We’re honored to bridge the gap between the two and make our economy and our community stronger for it.”

DAVID RUST, CEO OF SAY YES BUFFALO
DETROIT DRIVES DEGREES COMMUNITY COLLEGE COLLABORATIVE

WHAT IT IS:
The Detroit Drives Degrees Community College Collaborative (D3C3) is a post-secondary success initiative aimed at maximizing credit attainment, credential completion, and employment outcomes for young adults and others across our Southeast Michigan region. D3C3 is being led by the Detroit Regional Chamber and will contribute to goals and objectives of the Detroit Regional Talent Compact, a 10-year strategic plan, launched in 2020, that seeks to achieve the goal of having 60% of region’s residents having a postsecondary credential or degree by 2030 and to simultaneously reduce the racial equity achievement gap by half and lead to high-quality jobs.

WHY IT’S IMPORTANT:
Because almost two-thirds of all future jobs will require postsecondary education or training, it’s crucial to foster a more educated and equitable region, which we believe is most effectively accomplished through coalition-building and a shared vision. By coming together across sectors, D3C3 can make strides toward increasing education attainment and completion rates, which will improve quality of life for the region.

WHO’S INVOLVED:
At the forefront of this initiative is the Detroit Regional Chamber, working closely with a dynamic group of seven community college partners, including Henry Ford College, Macomb Community College, Monroe County Community College, Oakland Community College, Schoolcraft College, Washtenaw Community College, and Wayne County Community College District. Together, they are joined by many other committed stakeholders and technical assistance partners.

OUR ROLE:
Sharing an aligned focus on improving economic mobility for young adults and families, and modeling the collaborative effort of D3C3, we teamed up with the Ballmer Group to jointly support this initiative through $30 million in combined grant support to the seven community colleges and the Detroit Regional Chamber as the coordinating organization. By investing together, we were able to expand our reach and impact, bringing the colleges from across the region’s seven counties under one umbrella to learn, share best practices, support, and hold each other accountable for outcomes and results.

HOW IT WORKS:
Over a nine-month planning phase that began in 2022, the colleges have worked together to produce innovative, systemic approaches at the institutional level and across all colleges that focus around three clusters: student success, K-12 alignment, and sector-based pathways. With grant support, the colleges are making investments that will improve technology to produce better data to support students, and adding advisors and career navigators. To provide students with earlier access to community college, they are building stronger relationships with K-12 school districts and offering more dual enrollment and high-quality career and career tech education programs. And critically important, the colleges are working with local employers to build and share curriculum for the region’s most in-demand career pathways, such as mobility. The colleges are also committed to replicating and sustaining the approaches that work.
“There is no path to meeting our educational attainment goals without focusing on retaining current college students, attracting new college students, and re-enrolling former college students. Community colleges have a critical role to play in meeting these attainment goals and strengthening our talent pipeline.”

GREG HANDEL, VICE PRESIDENT OF EDUCATION AND TALENT AT THE DETROIT REGIONAL CHAMBER

Young Adults Manufacturing Training Employment Program (YAMTEP)
$400,000
Western New York
To support the expansion of middle-skill, middle-wage training pathways in advanced manufacturing for both young adults and adults in Rochester, NY.
We believe that caregivers of older adults should be valued and respected, and their role should be revered in our culture. To raise awareness and point people to resources, we’re supporting efforts like the Any Care Counts NY campaign in partnership with ARCHANGELS and the NY Office on Aging. Across both our regions, our support of the New York and Michigan Solutions Journalism Collaborative is producing rigorous reporting on successful responses to challenges experienced by caregivers of older adults. We’ve also joined alongside national caregiver movements with the Rosalynn Carter Institute for Caregivers that are looking at opportunities to get caregiver voices and needs in front of difference-makers and employers across New York, Michigan, and nationwide. While work to improve the infrastructure around caregivers advances, initiatives like Exhale support new and hopefully long-lasting solutions to support caregivers more directly, solutions that we hope other communities and regions can also adopt.
WHAT IS IT:
Exhale, the Family Caregiver Initiative, is dedicated to offering innovative solutions that give caregivers an opportunity to breathe a little easier. The initiative first launched in Western New York and has since been piloted in Washtenaw County, Michigan with plans to further expand across the Southeast Michigan region.

OUR ROLE:
We lead and co-fund this initiative in partnership with the Health Foundation for Western & Central New York and Ann Arbor Area Community Foundation, along with management support from The Philanthropic Initiative and other partners.

HOW DOES IT WORK:
Exhale has three components: First, it brings nonprofits and other service organizations together for training in creative problem solving around caregiver respite needs and project management. Next, grant opportunities are provided to pilot collaborative projects. And finally, grantees are supported with a learning community around effective implementation and sustainability.

WHY IT MATTERS:
According to AARP, in 2021 about 38 million Americans spent 36 billion hours caring for older adults with chronic, disabling, or serious health conditions. A period of rest or relief, known as respite, can play a key role in reinforcing caregiver well-being and effectiveness, leading to better health, improved social engagement, and lower costs of care for family caregivers and older adults they care for. And according to the ARCHANGELS Caregiver Intensity Index, simply knowing respite services are available can lower caregiver stress by 70%.

WHO’S INVOLVED:
The second cohort of Exhale respite programs launched in early 2023 and represent 58 partner organizations across Western New York and Washtenaw County, MI, who will work in teams led by the 13 grantees. These pilot programs include neighborhood respite centers, a “mystery trip” program, care support to improve healthy living with chore support, home modifications, mobile respite care, and more.

WHAT’S NEXT:
Visit ExhaleForCaregivers.org for the latest initiative information and opportunities.
60% of caregivers experience work disruption of employees had to leave a job because of caregiving.

2.3 work days a month missed by caregiver employees.
WHO IS RCI:
The Rosalynn Carter Institute for Caregivers (RCI) was established in 1987 by former First Lady Rosalynn Carter to promote the health, strength, and resilience of America’s 53 million family caregivers. RCI fulfills its promise to champion the family caregiver by building cross-sector partnerships, leading research projects and strategic initiatives, developing and implementing evidence-based programs, and advocating for public policy.

OUR SUPPORT:
In the last few years, we’ve provided a series of grants to RCI to work with employers to design, pilot, and evaluate innovative programs to better support caregiver employees. RCI’s Working While Caring (WWC) initiative addresses caregiver-employee needs by conducting research, engaging employers, and promoting communication. Additionally, we support RCI’s efforts in amplifying the voice of caregivers to focus on policy, research, and awareness-raising to impact caregivers both nationally and within our own communities.

WHY IT MATTERS:
The systems in place to support caregivers are fragmented, inaccessible, and oftentimes nonexistent. With the onset of the COVID-19 pandemic, it seemed as though caregivers would finally receive the recognition and support they deserve, but significant action has yet to be taken. In the words of Mrs. Carter, we must “seize the moment” to create meaningful, systemic change.

WHAT’S NEXT:
At the urging of Mrs. Carter, RCI has called for the establishment of an Office of Caregiver Health to elevate and focus unprecedented federal representation, investment, and coordination of caregiver support across federal agencies. Leadership at this level will ensure that family caregivers are represented in health policy, regulation, program, and budget negotiations across the department and other agencies. A centralized office would dismantle silos that are barriers to progress by creating ways to consider the universal needs of caregivers, regardless of care recipient condition and payor. To drive this work forward, RCI recently launched the 4Kinds Network, its first-ever national family caregiver advocacy network. Through the 4Kinds Network, RCI mobilizes former and current family caregivers to fundamentally change the way caregivers are seen and supported.

“There are only four kinds of people in the world - those who have been caregivers, those who are currently caregivers, those who will be caregivers, and those who will need caregivers.”

The nonprofit sector is a key driver of positive change and community well-being. We are encouraged to see the dedicated efforts being made to strengthen the support network for nonprofits in Southeast Michigan and Western New York. Both regions’ grantees focus on increasing capacity, promoting collaboration, and addressing inclusive leadership and investment gaps. While the work of ecosystem-building and support may only sometimes be visible, it is crucial for achieving lasting impact. In the context of regional challenges and tragedies, such as those experienced by Buffalo in 2022, we are grateful to have the flexibility to respond to community needs through thoughtful nonprofit partners.
BUFFALO TOGETHER COMMUNITY RESPONSE FUND

WHAT IS IT:
The Buffalo Together Community Response Fund (BTCRF) was created to work together toward a more just and equitable community after the horrific mass shooting in Buffalo, NY, on May 14, 2022. A person filled with hate and racism targeted a thriving local grocery store in a historically Black neighborhood and killed 10 members of our community because of the color of their skin. Three others were injured and countless others in our community were traumatized.

WHO IS INVOLVED:
The BTCRF is a collaboration of 14 local funding organizations coordinated by the Community Foundation for Greater Buffalo and United Way of Buffalo & Erie County with support from 100 local and national foundations and corporations, as well as more than 2,000 community members.

HOW DOES IT WORK:
To date, $6.3 million has been raised for the BTCRF. The first priority was to support Black-led organizations mobilizing resources in the neighborhood to enable them to respond to immediate critical neighborhood needs utilizing $655,000 in grants distributed to 86 organizations.

WHAT’S NEXT:
The BTCRF is turning its focus on addressing conditions resulting from long-standing structural racism and lack of investment that have harmed communities of color and blocked investment in East Side neighborhoods. A steering committee of 15 community members hired Minneapolis-based Rainbow Research, with separate funding from local philanthropy, to develop priorities and a plan of action. The investment strategy is expected to be shared in early 2024.
WHAT IS IT:
The Nonprofit Support Group (NSG) in Western New York supports coordination and delivery of capacity-building services to nonprofits and facilitates collaboration among philanthropic partners. The group has filled gaps and needs in the sector through initiatives and services identified by community input and feedback from nonprofits.

WHO’S INVOLVED:
Comprised of the Health Foundation for Western & Central New York, the John R. Oishei Foundation, Peter & Elizabeth Tower Foundation, Ralph C. Wilson, Jr. Foundation, the Western New York Foundation, ESL Charitable Foundation, and 1.5 staff members, the work of the NSG is inspired and informed by the community.

WHAT IS HAPPENING:
NSG concluded the Coaches of Color Initiative, launched a yearlong Institute for Nonprofit Practice cohort-based program, continued to support the Catchafire program, and provided support for the Equity through Development Project for BIPOC fundraising professionals. In addition, NSG, along with nine intermediary organizations, launched the Impact HQ collaborative effort to support nonprofits during the pandemic.
WHAT IS IT:
The Transforming Solidarity Collective is a group of five intermediaries working together to support nonprofits during the pandemic and into recovery.

WHO’S INVOLVED:
Co.act Detroit, Community Development Advocates of Detroit, Michigan Nonprofit Association, Michigan Community Resources, and Nonprofit Enterprise at Work.

WHAT IS HAPPENING:
The collective has provided resources and guidance to hundreds of nonprofits in the Southeast Michigan region and has developed strategies to support them in becoming stable and sustainable. They have also launched a nonprofit journal storytelling project and helped secure $50 million in American Rescue Plan funds to support Michigan nonprofits with a budget of $1 million or less. The collective work has helped increase coordination and impact among the intermediaries and has focused their efforts on what is best for the sector. Ecosystem partners are also helping to inform the deployment of the rescue plan funds.

As one of Detroit’s most prominent attorneys and civic leaders, the board and staff of the Ralph C. Wilson, Jr. Foundation are forever grateful that Eugene Driker accepted Ralph Wilson’s invitation to serve as one of the four life trustees of the Foundation. After several years of working together and developing a special bond and friendship, Mr. Wilson recognized how valuable Eugene’s empathy, humility, and wisdom would be in guiding the mission, values, and direction of the Foundation.

A lifelong Detroiter, and the proud son of Ukrainian immigrants, Eugene also brought an incredible lived experience to all aspects of his work and philanthropy. Eugene has been a tireless advocate for the Southeast Michigan and Western New York communities. The Foundation team will continue to honor the wisdom of Eugene Driker as it seeks to advance the strategies that he so thoughtfully and wisely helped shape.
